

Freedom Never Dies

Harry T. Moore

Paved the way for the '60s civil rights movement by championing equal pay for black teachers, Organized the black vote, and Publicly condemned racist attitudes and actions of local, state and national officials.

On Christmas Day 1951

On Christmas Day 1951, the Moores' house was bombed. He and his wife were killed. It was "the bomb heard around the world."

Burton's Funeral Home Sanford, Florida

This is where I grew up.

Fall 1964

My Godfather, Dr. G. H. Starke, formed the “Bi Racial Committee” to integrated schools in Seminole County

Fall 1964

I was asked if I wanted to go to the “white” school. I replied, “Yes!” without really thinking about it.

The night before...

I received an anonymous phone call from a white woman warning me
not to go to the “white”
school.

The very next day...

I was escorted by police into Sanford Jr. High by the Police

Sanford Jr. High, 1964

I walked this path as my father watched from his car.

Seminole High, 1965

The next year about eight of us integrated Seminole High School.

“Non-violence”

I was never trained for it, but I went through as if I had been. Someone else carried me through.

It takes courage and love to effect change in the face of danger.

I did it without even knowing that I was in danger.

“courage”

A perfect sensibility to the measure of danger,
and a mental willingness to endure it.

A picture of “courage”

“love”

■ Caused Winnifred Dorsett to give me away so that I could have a better life than what she could give me under the circumstances.

“love”

Caused the owners of Burton's Funeral Home to adopt me and promise Winnie that I would be well educated and cared for.

“love”

Caused Cleo
Alexander
Burton to raise a step-child as her own blood.

“love”

Is why I said, “yes”
when I was 14 years old and never gave a thought about my safety or any threat
to my life.

“love”

Is what motivated Harry T. Moore to devote his whole life to the Civil Rights Movement.

Movement.

The Legacy of Harry T. Moore

It seems that I hear Harry Moore.
From the earth his voice cries, No bomb can kill the dreams I hold--
For freedom never dies!

I will not stop! I will not stop--
For freedom never dies!
I will not stop! I will not stop!
Freedom never dies!

So should you see our Harry Moore
Walking on a Christmas night,
Don't run and hide, you killers,
He has no dynamite.

In his heart is only love
For all the human race,
And all he wants is for every man
To have his rightful place.

And this he says, our Harry Moore,
As from the grave he cries:
No bomb can kill the dreams I hold
For freedom never dies!

“Freedom never dies, I say.
